

Think of the following...

How does your organization currently measure its ecological impact?

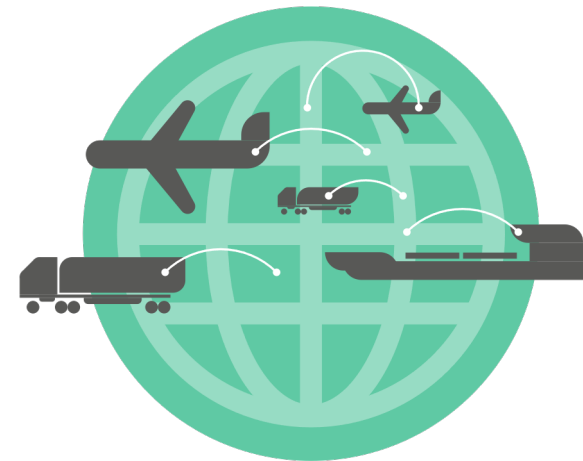

Especially when it comes to Global Mobility?

A Sneak Peek!

As mobility demands increase, global environmental impact increases as well.

- More and more companies globally are moving towards inclusion of sustainability in their corporate mobility policies
 - With increasing emphasis in procurement policies for environmentally responsible suppliers
- This naturally also applies to Global Mobility Departments with a wish – increasingly turning into a demand – for more sustainable service providers
- However, until recently, no real long-term ‘green’ initiatives were being deployed by the moving industry to collectively meet these needs

That is why a powerful, durable ecological proposition was created to tie into these developments!

A Sneak Peek!

Stay tuned for an accessible way to start measuring and reducing the impact of your global moves right away!

